Big things were in store when, early in 1945, Old Man Winter bowed out for that season with his last blast. Come what may, though, Tulane's students kept going with their activities—cramming a bit of study between hours of formals, campus nights, plays, and the like.

Shining brass, notables such as Governor Davis, Lord Halifax, and others visited the campus; there were graduations and commissionings; students elected their college and class officers; and all the things so much a part of collegiate days came at their times.

It was January—Johnny Mann got caught by the photographer, but musing medics were more interested in cadavers than cameras. Evidently "Tookie" hadn't met Don yet. "Macbeth" fought with the Lily Whiters for the campus lime light.

February seemed a much bigger month—you'd think there was a naval unit somewhere around, or why else would Rear Admiral Bennett plus a host of gold braid inspect lines of navy-blue uniforms? Along came the St. Valentine Day formal when Carl "Cuddles" Schumacher was crowned Darling of Tulane males. Newcomb, to aid the WSSF drive, polished windows...and a set of twins gave the illusion of double-vision. Dating was still the style, as Tulanians rushed the 'phone booths. Legs, too, retained their spot on the Tulane hit parade.
This Business of Study
Has to Begin

The month of lambs and lions meant a "Goldern Jubilee" Jamb to the students, a Hulla-sponsored clothing drive, frat-house barn dances, and Newcomb art students sketching on the lawns. Trainees still drew pay, and gals still gossiped on the library patio, while Mac's bunkmate wrote "Dear Mom." Yes, the campus had settled down to the busy hum of higher learning and pin-ball machines.

Oh, but April. More barn dances. More gossip over bridge hands, and more "Tookie." The gals with the ears weren't making donkeys of themselves, just being initiated. April showered the campus with fun... but only for those Maytime blossoms to come.
Not spring, but summer and June parties turned up as pages flipped off the calendar. This was the time for graduates, for best gals to pin epaulets on best guy’s shoulders, and for Carolyn to present . . . er, the colors . . . to Blanc, while Cap’n Lake remembers the time when—. Still gay, Newcomb turned to May Day and dancing can-can girls, while the engineers turned to slide rules and Queen Dede, pride of Rotcee Rault.

Yes, summertime is swimming time, said Newcomb mermaids. Oops, watch out, Sonny-boy, there may be a blade in that razor. Pardon us for dropping in like this, but we’re always looking for a new angle. Must have been a navy dance.
The fine art of mending is explained by an ever-helpful "sewing-unit-lady." No time for many picnics, for graduations came along too fast. Stomps began again, heat waves or no; more formals, more campus nights. We're always opening the wrong doors, but, anyway, "Here's to you." August followed July, and August brought the biggest event of years. While med school planted a traditional sprig of ivy, and RO's visited Shell Beach, Tulane's physicists play their part in ushering in the Atomic Age. V-J and a week's vacation followed soon after.

In the Good Ole Summer
Time at Tulane
September was the month all Tulane waited for. Lassies of Newcomb returned to dusty books, Forever Amber was put away. RO's had gas drills, the navy honored retiring Captain Lake and his successor, Captain Power. Both Dede and Mignonne bid a rather fond farewell to the Skipper, and the Veterans showed the navy a real boat... ah, she's there, too.

Spring, summer, fall—it's all romance-time for Tulane. What the heck, say the cheerleaders, let's all give out. [See, we told you there was a blade in that razor, Sonny-boy.] Don't get alarmed, they really aren't mad at one another—it's only the Navy boxing match. And those red lanterns mean another Saturday nite party for some. Energetic Emmett shows the boys a leap or two, and Joe and Dabney rate seats with the big guys.
Great Year Ends

Football and Homecoming—ATO claims the cup with their house decorations; Bohmfalk amuses a host of students and alumni at the special Homecoming Campus night; "Little Monk" instructs Al Brinker before he enters the Tulane-Notre Dame game. Alumni, following their "academy award" performance on campus night, arrive at the formal dance given them; the Homecoming Beauty Court is snapped in its dazzle; NRO student officers escort the young ladies across the field; and Tulane, represented by a youngster, asks Santa to fill its stocking with a host of things in 1946—room for the 35 percent larger student body, more dances, and more college activities.
A Record of Events • The Jambalaya
During the Year of 1946
Not just in these pictures and phrases, but in our memories, are the events of the past 12 months etched. These months have brought history in an unparalleled form. The world's greatest war came to an end with a victory brought by a new power—a power made possible through years of research and study on the part of the greatest minds of America. Through the might of education the Atomic Age was opened and nine days later peace came again to a battered world.
Against a backdrop of world strife, Tulanians3 marched along their educational paths. Somewhere else in the world, Tulanians marched, died, and made possible the continuity of a way of life which we are privileged to enjoy. To the Tulanians who died in World War II we respectfully dedicate this yearbook.
A Message FROM THE PRESIDENT

In the JAMBALAYA four years ago I wrote of the temporary change in the function of education which Tulane faced at that time, and it has recorded the changing aspects of the University's life during those years. Although the war period required consideration of temporary and emergency needs, plans also were made for our educational progress in the future. At the war's end Tulane announced plans to obtain new financial resources and to bring additional endowment to the University. This does not suggest expansion. It has always been our desire to provide the best possible instruction for a selected student body. The endowment of the University must be increased now to enable Tulane to grow normally and to maintain our present educational commitments, the assurance to this section of fine educational opportunity.

Commencement this year brings an end to the wartime V-12 and NROTC programs. We shall regret to say goodbye to the Navy trainees who have come from the forty-eight states. We shall miss seeing their trim uniforms and their smart parades. We shall remember with a smile and an understanding heart the discomforts of their crowded living conditions and the monotony of a mess-hall existing on the barrenness of a civilian market! With it over we shall look back upon the past years of wartime existence with more tolerance and with nostalgia for the good friends who saw it through with us. We are happy now to welcome the return of war veterans, among whom are many former Tulanians, as well as the younger students who have not known military service. The problems of reconversion are difficult and slow of solving. There is no gallantry in enduring them. But now we must engage in the struggle for peace, and it must be without fear and without faintness of heart.

This book will bring to mind the year 1945-46, which saw the end of the war and the graduation of the School of Medicine on the day of the announcement of victory over Japan. It will show the faces of many friends for whom war's end will mean the return to their chosen Alma Mater or the shedding of their uniformed existence at Tulane. All of these friends will leave something of themselves here, and will carry something of us with them throughout their lives.

Colorful Pre-Game Ceremonies Were Part of the 1945 Homecoming Celebration.

The Homecoming Luncheon Brought Together Many Tulane Alumni.
The purpose of a well organized alumni association is to act as liaison between the University and its former students. The year's activities of the Tulane Alumni Association were planned with three concomitant objectives in mind, fostering the interests of Tulane University, serving the needs and interests of the individual alumnus and rendering service directly or indirectly to the country's war effort. These were accomplished through regular and special activities. An effective program of service for Tulanians serving in the armed forces was carried out during the year. The Tulanian, official alumni publication, was mailed to all former students in all parts of the world. A news letter, Tulaniappe, "a little extra something about Tulane for Tulanians" was enthusiastically received. Alumni on leave from active duty were welcomed back to the campus by the alumni staff. A file of addresses of those in the services was maintained and made available to all alumni.

Other activities of the Association during the year included participation in out-of-town alumni club meetings, class reunions, and the conduct of a Memorial Service in Princeton, New Jersey, on May 10th in honor of Paul Tulane. The Association continued its custom of honoring fifty-year graduates at Commencement exercises, and of having an officer welcome members of the graduating classes into the Tulane Alumni Association. During the present year the T-Club was reorganized, an alumni records office established, and the first Homecoming celebration since 1941 was held.

Miss Betty Pourciau, 1945 Homecoming Queen.
Scholastic activities continued on a full-year basis at Tulane during the war, these being represented by The Classes.

While minor problems entailing student body activities within the individual colleges are left to the jurisdiction of the college board concerned, campus-wide issues are the chief concern of the University Student Council, the over-all governing body of the Associated Students of Tulane University. Composed of the student body presidents of the several colleges, and meeting bi-monthly, the Council, among its many duties, determines policies of student government, recognizes and supervises all student activities, interprets the constitutions of the respective student bodies, and allocates and supervises the expenditure of all student funds. It also supervises the sponsorship of all university drives and collections.

A prewar custom was revived this year when the Council again issued the Wave Handbook, designed expressly for incoming students. It includes facts about University history, describes all recognized student activities, presents the constitution of the University student body, its songs and yells, and various services offered each student of Tulane.

The three Council officers are chosen by vote of an electoral college, selected through a campus-wide polling. Acting in the capacity of Graduate Adviser to the Council is Miss Beatrice M. Field.

Student government and student cooperation with the faculty are the keynotes of the self-governing body of students at Newcomb College, the Newcomb Student Council. Attempting to preserve the strength of the college and a centralized guide for student enterprise, the council carries out the legislation of the Student Government Association.

Any needed changes in Newcomb’s constitution are proposed by the Council; all charters for organizations on campus are granted; and, at all times, the actions of the Student Council strive to embody the active work of an association of able and adult individuals.

The aim of the Council is an efficient and representative self-government. It is made up of officers of all the important groups on campus, and so, is comprised of outstanding, active Newcomb girls. The college has shown great confidence in giving the Council the legislative and administrative powers to control its own affairs.
Holding jurisdiction over the conduct of students of Newcomb College is the Honor Board, whose purpose it is to maintain within the school high standards of integrity and personal character. Each student, upon entrance into the College, signs the pledge in an impressive ceremony before the Board, promising to abide by the regulations of the Newcomb Honor System.

Any infringements or violations of the pledge are referred to the Board and dealt with accordingly, each student being on her honor to answer for herself as well as for any other students involved.

The Honor Board also supervises all general student body elections, from the keeping of polls to the counting of votes.
Providing the resident-government for students of Newcomb College living in the dormitories, is the Dormitory Council, which is composed of representatives from all of the campus houses. It carries out the rules and regulations, tries offenders, and serves with executive, judicial, and legislative powers.

The Council also provides for entertainments by and for its members, working with all dormitory students for an efficient system of self-government in matters relating to the conduct of its members, both as individuals and as a social group. It attempts in these ways to obtain a well-rounded dormitory life.

The Publications Board, whose function is to choose and advise the editors and business managers of the Hullabaloo and Jambalaya, is composed of the editors-in-chief of the two publications, the business managers of these, the president of the University Student Council, an elected member of the Student Council, and two senior class presidents chosen from the classes of any of the colleges, by vote of the University Student Council.

Besides being responsible for the selection of the editors and business managers, the board settles any disputes with or between staffs concerning questions of policy. Selection of staffs, however, is left to the discretion of the individual editorial and business heads.

Chairman of the board is the president of the University Student Council, while its other officers, a vice-chairman and a secretary, are chosen by vote of members. The advisers are Miss Beatrice M. Field and Dean George E. Simmons.

The JAMBALAYA, official yearbook of the Tulane University of Louisiana, has undergone tremendous changes in its 51-year history. The book has been in complete accord with changing times, altering from year to year in a marked process of journalistic evolution. The small 100-page folio which made its appearance at the turn of the 19th century bears to the 1946 JAMBALAYA a resemblance in but name and purpose.

Strikingly appropriate when examined in conjunction with the purpose the book seeks to fulfill, is the name JAMBALAYA—meaning a mixture. To accurately portray one college year, inclusive of all happenings, is an ideal each editor in his turn seeks to reach, each being confronted with a silent challenge on the office door—JAMBALAYA. It signifies a kaleidoscopic mixture of the diverse phases of a rapidly-expanding university life, all of which must be recorded.

The ingredients are known well: registration, solemn graduations, dances, football games and pep rallies, final exams, campus nights, homecoming—and all the other things we take in our four-year stride.

College events live long in memory, but there is an added pleasure in seeking a pictorial record—this is our job. The substantive task remains the same always, but there is a progressive step from the hazy, stereotyped pictures of yesteryear to the clear half-tones of '46 which lessen the job of portraying student activities and which are due solely to modern advances in the engraving and printing industries. The editor of 1895 had his problems; 51 years and two World Wars later we have had ours, the difference being only one of degree.

Whether or not this JAMBALAYA truthfully reflects the Tulane campus as it was in the turbulent year of 1946 is not for us to judge. It represents our efforts—may you, the reader, be well pleased.

The Hullabaloo staff is a bunch of happy-go-lucky students who feel themselves journalistically inclined and wish to rid themselves of this uncomfortable feeling. So, they drop into the office one day, then another, and another, until finally, those there already think they are one of the staff which they are then because they have come around so much.

What goes on behind those closed doors on Mondays, Tuesdays, and always, however, is a different story. While Eve, during her eight-month reign, sat nonchalantly cutting paper dolls out of yellow copy-paper, the rest of the staff, which at that time was largely masculine, sat. Pouring over stories?

There was Plauché with his cigars, Wiley with his pipe, and Benjamin with his draft board on his neck. Swat was just there, drawing up front-page make-up, stuffing it in his locker, then losing the key. Somehow, the key and Swat always turned up and saved the front page. Phillips (with Moulin close behind) came dashing in with a pile of stories her Newcomb sub-sisters turned out. Crawford, better known as Round-Boy, sauntered in occasionally with hilarious cartoons, most of which made the editorial page. Wing's columns, however, didn't always do so well, particularly the ones about the editor.

As the result of an ad, the editor was able to give up her hobby of bike-riding between the student center office and the press, when copy-boy Bert Kehl, who deserves more than this plug, obligingly stepped into the picture. This let her shift her interests to priming Jim and Swat for their great ordeal to come in February.

The medics wanted a column, and prescribed "RX", but it finally ran them down, and they quit. That left but one medic loose in the office, and since he was the representative of the sophomore class, he was legally "on business." Ask the editor.

Billie walked off every day with an armful of exchange papers, Itchy ornamented the office, and Morty ran into the navy brass with his features, so he just stopped. Not much was seen of Bertrand. Occupying other chairs, Gabe drew pictures, Carolyn interviewed for features, and Connie assisted the staff. Perry was real eager at first. Shockey began her career telephoning fraternity and sorority houses for news, while tattled tales became anybody's plaything.

Photographs, when film and bulbs were available, were taken by two Millers, Brown, and, occasionally, Sonfield, who specialized in getting the football thrown at him during the season. Wedig held the cabinet keys and brought in oversized ads, but his circulation staff with Charlie doing the bossing managed to address the papers every Thursday and bring them down to the Post Office.

Despite the TVA in one corner, and the Urchin in another, it was all one, great, big happy family, too many of them to fit in the 2x4 bulging-at-the-seams office in Room 8, and to tell tales about. But all were around to taunt the editor's deadline dithers, and to enjoy wiener roasts, Christmas parties, and impromptu coke-and-cake rounds.

Not Much Room, but Student Stomps Are Popular Despite Crowds.

Listing among its programs during the year such activities as "student stomps," at which its members, generally known as Bonham's Bouncers, act as an introduction committee; bridge tourneys, and other gatherings, the Student Center Council has provided entertainment for the entire student body. Composed of electees from all colleges and classes for their interest in such activities, the group has made possible informal diversion from studies during hours before, between and after classes.

Recently they have taken over the care of the "master table" in the Center where students may obtain cards, chess sets, ping-pong equipment, and other games, and have sponsored bridge lessons several times a week. In conjunction with University functions, members of the Council act as hosts, serve at receptions, and help in the decoration of the Center for any occasion.

Since its opening, the Student Center has been the center of activity on the campus and serves as a meeting place for students of all colleges and groups.

THE STUDENT CENTER COUNCIL
With its standards embodying the five fields of scholarship, athletics, social and religious affairs, publication and speech, and musical and dramatic arts, Omicron Delta Kappa each year selects students, outstanding in achievement, for membership. Its purpose is to recognize men who have maintained a high standard of efficiency in college activities, and to encourage their fellow students to strive for achievements along those same lines.

Founded at Washington and Lee in 1914, the group came to the University in 1930 when the Alpha Zeta Circle was established.

"Meet Your Team" was the Greenbackers' favorite theme this year, as the University's school spirit promoters introduced to the student body a new type of party: get acquainted with the members of your competitive sports groups. Early in the fall, Green Wave rooters were given a chance to meet the football squad, and later, the basketball varsity was introduced at a similar function.

In addition to these activities, Greenbackers went all out to further spirited displays at all football games. Card drills, slogan stickers, Tulane tags combined with pre-game bonfires and pep rallies stirred the student body into a cheering mass.

The Greenbackers are students elected from independents showing school spirit, those representing fraternities and sororities, and the varsity cheerleading squad.
The University student body was led in cheers and songs this year, not only during the football season but also at basketball games and other competitive sports by a seven-member cheering squad, elected in the early fall.

Of the seven, the three feminine spark-plugs—referred to as "Tulane's swivel-hipped backfield"—included tiny Jane Rodrigue, squad head, and blonde Marion Green, Newcomb varsity teamster, with diminutive Newcomb Fresh Jodie Lewis. Masculine yell-persuaders were Don McCurley, Emmett Wroten, Dean Pfeiffer, and Freshman Harry Finkelstein.

Several new cheers were successfully introduced to the student body by the enthusiastic seven, but still the "Hullabaloo-ray-ray" held sway when it came to showing the team where the school's loyalty lay, and for providing verbal acknowledgments of scores by the Green Wave.
then "Claudia," with George Liskow and Janet Wright, as the Naughtons, made its appearance before the footlights.

In the usual fashion, TUT cooperated with the Choral groups to produce the annual Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, this year's choice being "The Grand Duke." Bringing down the curtain for the 1945-46 season was "The Little Foxes," with Shirley Pic and Riley Fell in top roles.

One of the big events for TUT members was a reception given in June for motion picture stars "on location" for "Enchanted Voyage." Among those introduced were June Haver and leading man, John Ireland.

Working under Dr. Monroe Lippman, director, are Shirley Pic, technical director; Deirdre Crager, executive secretary; and Joan Opotowsky, librarian.

TULANE UNIVERSITY

This year, productions of Rose Franken's "Claudia" and Lillian Hellman's "Little Foxes" provided material for the dramatic during the Tulane University Theatre's ninth season. Though the cry of all its members is still "We Need A Theatre," TUT was able to move back into its old workshop when the naval unit vacated the former East Dormitory.

"Personal Appearance," the final play of the previous season was an entertaining farce about a famous actress stranded at the home of a country family. Doris Berthelot, Thom Collens and Janet Wright tagged the leading roles in the production, which tided audiences over until the fall began.

More Hollywood Glamor

Again the Naughtons

A Scene from "The Queen’s Husband."

“Personal Appearance” Proved Entertaining.
Splashes of college life, this year’s Campus Nights, composed, directed and portrayed entirely by students, provided at least seven evenings of mirth for collegiate audiences.

Changes of semesters have seen changes in chairmanships, Newcomb’s positions being held first by Catherine Burns, later by Lucie Lee Abramson. The Tulane half passed from the hands of Larry Taylor, to Gene Farinet, to Perry Brown.

Favorite performers included Arthur "Spike" Bohmfallc, Betty Ruth Davis, and the Tulaniens. Other talent was shown on individual productions by Charlie Swain, the Coed Coquettes, Jack Terry and Stan Skillcorn, Ed Schwabe, and Paul Jacobs with his crooning quartet.

Highlights this year were the annual Sorority and Fraternity Skit Nights, a mid-summer production, Orientation-Welcome in the fall, a share-the-stage night with L. S. U., a gala Homecoming program, featuring alumni participation, and a Frosh Night, designed and produced by the Newcomb crew.
Songstress Betty Davis interprets the blues with the Tulanians furnishing the backdrop.

More audience participation—this time Footballer Hank Angelo provides the laugh impetus.

A RIOT OF FUN ! ! ! !

Again a Spike Jones—again "Bom-bom" as Interpreter—this time on "Chloe."

Kappa's Ice House Mystery placed on Skit Night.

Here's the winner! Chi Omega's skit won the 1945 Pan-Hel Skit cup.

Touro Nurses, enrolled in Tulane, make a campus night debut.
With the return of Director John J. Morrissey to the scene, the Tulane Band, which has managed to keep alive due to the interest of pinch-hitting Tom Harllee during the war despite the odds of an accelerated school schedule, is now making strides toward assuming its former position as one of the most popular and active musical organizations on the campus.

As in the past, it will serve a dual purpose in the fall turning to marching music for football games; and, in the spring, becoming a concert band, featuring favorites of Gershwin, Kern, and Porter.

Exhibiting a growing interest in all phases of musical expression, the choral groups play a prominent role among student activities, there being seven organized that participate frequently in University programs and in regularly scheduled concerts.

Under the guidance of Maynard Klein, of the Newcomb School of Music, their aim is to sing and to appreciate the finest choral music, and to enhance this phase of culture in the University and in the South. Repertoire of the groups vary from masterpieces of all ages, to contemporary American composers, in which group interest is keen.

Active in college affairs, the groups perform annually at the Newcomb Memorial Services, at the University Baccalaureate Services, and at such affairs as the dedication of new campus buildings, and at other events. Each has appeared on programs of city-wide interest and on programs of national scope.

With the charm of personality and untiring work of the director, the choirs have been led toward accomplishment of the highest ideals of the choral art and have attained a degree of confidence and decisiveness commended by various audiences.

Almost traditional campus organizations, the Tulane and Newcomb Glee Clubs form the crux of the choral groups, memberships being open to any students interested. The Newcomb group is an integral part of the annual Christmas Memorial services, while the Tulane Glee Club, again coming into line after a few difficult war years, offers the usual glee program. Both present spring concerts with special groups drawn from their membership performing for various civic organizations throughout the year.

The A Cappella Choir, consisting of the most advanced singers, has attained, since its founding in 1935, a reputation worthy of appearance on the Music and American Youth Program over a nation-wide radio network (1941), on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House as part of the Music Educators National Conference program (1936), and as guests of the same group in St. Louis (1938). Local participation includes appearances with the New Orleans Symphony Orchestra, in the Spring Fiesta program, and others. It is rapidly achieving the return to its prewar excellence of production, with the group of selected voices studying the motets and part-songs that make up its usual musical offering.

The comment of the Music Educators Conference is typical of many notices concerning the A Cappella Choir, "All those hearing your group will agree that their work was outstanding, with beauty of tone and ensemble that is seldom heard."

A special group is the Elizabethans, which, in costumes of the sixteenth century, limits its repertoire to madrigals of that period.

The history of opera on the campus dates back to 1922 when the first Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "Patience," was presented under the sponsorship of the Newcomb Alumnae Association. This year's production, "The Grand Duke," marked the 19th presentation, there having been a five-year lapse in productions between 1923-28 due to the lack of a suitable place for the performances. After this recent presentation, the group can claim to have done all of the Gilbert and Sullivan comic operas, in a series that has become one of the outstanding traditions on the campus.

In addition to this, the past fifteen years has seen the presentation of a series of unusual and seldom-heard operatic masterpieces, the first being produced in 1930. Among the works presented have been Purcell’s "Dido and Aeneas," Milton’s "Comus," Pergolesi’s "La Serva Padrona," Rousseau’s "Le Devin Du Village," "Old Fortunatus" by Dekker, "La Jeu De Robin Et Marion" by de la Halle, "Der Dorfbarbier of Schenk," and in recent years, Gay’s "Beggar’s Opera" and Gluck’s "Orpheus."

Composed of choral voices drawn from the university students, and faculty and from singers from all parts of the city, the Festival Choir, the largest of the groups, presents a Christmas-time interpretation of Handel’s "Messiah," appears at seasonal concerts, and on special occasions. The emphasis of the organization is on mass singing for special effects.

Musical productions on the campus this year have been many the "Grand Duke" marking the first event of an ambitious program for the present school year. The classic opera, "Iphigenia in Aulis," by Gluck, was the spring presentation, with the A Cappella Choir singing the chorus parts and the Newcomb Dance Club and University Theatre assisting.

In line with the policy of giving performances of important choral works seldom heard, the Festival Choir offered in March, Faure’s "Requiem," "The Hymn of Jesus" by Gustav Holst, and "Ein’ Feste Burg Ist Unser Gott," Contata No. 80 by J. S. Bach, all presented for the first time in the city and given with full orchestra, soloists, and chorus.

The A Cappella group presented in May an interesting project in the singing of excerpts from the "Mass In B Minor" by Bach.

Student officers for the groups this year were, A Cappella Choir, Marcia Hathaway, president; Newcomb Glee Club, Betty Meriwether; and Tulane Glee Club, Donald Dexter.

The TULANIANS

Drummerboy Cambon beats it out to thrill admirers.

The Tulanians, with Ed Schwebe Handling the Vocals, Gets in the Swing of Things for a Super Stomp.

Paul Mecouch Hits the Bass.

The familiar theme of "Pastel Blues" introduces the Tulanians, popular student dance band, which has played for many of the stomps, Campus Night programs, and other student functions, besides presenting shows at the various veterans' hospitals in the city.

Starting out as an all-navy group, later expanding to admit civilians, the swing band achieved wide popularity, playing for the student body despite curricular handicaps. Succeeding Pete Mahler as student director was Tommy Harrah, with Eddie Capper and Jack Honsinger serving as business managers, and Paul Mecouch as adviser.

A new function was assumed this fall when the group played for several football games.

Vocalists with the Tulanians were Ed Schwebe and Betty Ruth Davis.
Lagniappes have done their share toward keeping the student body dancing, and, during the past year, presented for general approval a number of enjoyable dances. Topping off the social activities before Newcomb vacated for the 1945 summer was the formal held in the Municipal Auditorium at which national favorite Frankie Masters soothed sighing terpsichoreans.

In way of welcome for the returning Newcomb students, an open air street dance was given the week of Orientation, followed the next week by a large formal in the Jung’s Tulane Room. In November, honoring the first peacetime Homecoming activities, Lagniappes again played host, this time to a large number of returning and visiting alumni, with their November 25 formal, at which the Homecoming Court was introduced. Next on the calendar was the Paul Tulane Day open-air dance, now hardly a part of the past, too recent for all who enjoyed it to forget.

Members of Lagniappes including outstanding students from all colleges and classes of the University, are elected on the basis of their interest and participation in school affairs.

The function of the Tulane Forum has been to present a liberal insight into all controversial issues through short informative lectures, given by experts on the topics, followed by a general debate. The audience is comprised of university personnel and visiting friends.

Speakers and topics, ranging from contemporary issues to the function of campus music, are selected by the student-faculty board, a student member of which supervises the discussion as moderator. Dr. Harold N. Lee, head of the Newcomb philosophy department, is faculty adviser.

The whole atmosphere of the Forum is one of general informality, sincere interest, and friendly discussion.

Glen Dy Burke Literary and Debate Society, the oldest organization at the University, is a living example of Tulane tradition. Primarily a debating society composed of 48 members, each of whom represents one of the United States in general discussion, the group was originally instituted before present Tulane University was incorporated.

In honor of the founding, there is an annual banquet held each January 21. During regular meetings of the society, debates, extemporaneous speeches, and discussions are held. Members show their interest in forensics by organizing squads, and challenging other organizations to formal debates.

THETA NU

Counting among its members since establishment here in 1926 graduates distinguished in the field, Theta Nu, honorary group, strives for the furtherment of achievement in journalism and development of undergraduate participation in the Hullabaloo.

Now resuming its prewar activities, Theta Nu will again present the annual Reporter's Cup to the student most outstanding in reportorial achievement on the campus, and will continue to promote interest in the Dorothy Dix Prize competition, a yearly contest open to students in the Department of Journalism.

Organized to provide an extra-curricular activity on the campus that will encourage creative writing, the Spectators admit to their membership only those students who have shown creative or critical ability.

Original manuscripts are submitted to the group for constructive criticism and discussion on any subject which may arise as a result of the work. In addition to regular meetings, which are open to any student of the university, the Spectators, by sponsoring literary contests each year, have attempted to develop interest on the campus in the field of creative writing.

Promoting interest in creative dancing of all types, the Newcomb Dance Club has progressed considerably under the enthusiastic direction of Miss Francis Bush. During the year all ballet routines necessary are supplied campus productions, besides the annual spring recital in which every member participates. Membership is through try-out.

Governing the Newcomb College athletic activities is the Athletic Council, supervisor of the Athletic Association. Composed of equal number of members from each of the four classes, the board has charge of the intramural program and individual sports.

This year for the first time the freshmen class participated in the intramural program, designed on the basis of class versus class rather than dormitory versus town as previously. An intramural cup will be awarded to the winning class, to be kept for a year, as well as individual trophies to be awarded to individual winners of tournaments.

Every student at Newcomb is a member of the association, and is invited to participate in various athletic clubs, intramural tournaments, and other activities. The aim of the association is the promotion of an active interest in athletics, for the purpose of building a healthy body and a strong mind through fun and exercise.
Beta Beta Beta, Newcomb's national honorary biological fraternity, is one of the more recent additions to the campus. Formally, the biological society under the affiliation of Lampyrids, its members are selected by the faculty and the active student officers for their scholastic achievements in the field of biological science for their spirit of cooperation within the classroom and their native interest in the subject. Tri Beta recently celebrated its third anniversary on this campus.

Interest is further stimulated by monthly lectures on some topic of biology or related science given by outstanding scientists in that field. There are field trips for collection purposes scheduled twice a year which have proved fun as well as interesting.

An honorary organization at Newcomb College, the Assets this year played a vital part in the newly-revamped Orientation program. Cooperating with Alpha Sigma Sigma, they planned such additional activities as a weekend in the dormitory for town freshmen, a picnic-supper for faculty and freshmen, and, during Orientation Week, the publication of a newsletter, The Forty Niner. Other events included were campus tours, a luncheon, and the traditional "adoption" of freshmen "Little Sisters" by upperclassmen, known as "Big Sisters."

Because of the added interest in Orientation activities this year, the event assumed more significance, and aided in familiarizing the new students not only with the University but with traditions, customs, and social life.

Toward the close of each academic year new members are elected from those of the freshman class showing outstanding loyalty and scholastic achievement. As sophomores the following year, these electees participate in planning Orientation.

PHI BETA KAPPA
Having as its paramount purpose the maintenance of a high standard of legal ethics, Phi Delta Phi, honorary legal fraternity, chooses its members from those students in the School of Law who have proven themselves according to standards of scholarship, morals, and legal ethics.

It is a national organization, the White Inn chapter being established at Tulane University in 1911. Officers of the group are Nestor Currault, Jr., president; Robert Polchow, vice-president; and Guyton Watkins, secretary-treasurer. Faculty members include Leonard Oppenheim, C. J. Morrow, and Eugene Nabors.

Electees are honored at formal banquets, following which are initiation ceremonies.
Long recognized as one of the most conspicuous school spirit groups in Newcomb College, Alpha Sigma Sigma, representing the ideals of honor, service, scholarship, leadership and spirit, is an honorary society composed of junior and senior members. Founded in 1916, it has since contributed to the development of freshman orientation and self-government. Members are selected each spring from the two upper classes, those being outstanding in spirit and loyalty being honored. Following an announcement of names at a Dixon Hall assembly, the electees don red and green donkey ears and wear them for the remainder of the day as a part of the mock initiation.

Last fall, the group served as the executive committee for the orientation program, and with the faculty committee, arranged the Faculty Adviser lists, which is another aid for new students.

The president of Alpha Sigma Sigma conducts Freshman Class meetings for the initial period of the first quarter until the freshmen elect their own class officers.
Up and coming among the organizations is the Tulane Veterans’ Association, formed last March when 13 servicemen, returning to college classrooms grouped together under their common bond. Recognized as an official student activity shortly after, it is now an independent veterans’ association with membership open to those honorably discharged from the service of any allied nation.

Numerous social entertainments have been offered in the program which is designed to create a closer relationship among the veterans and the remainder of the university. This fall, in conjunction with the orientation activities, the TVA sponsored dances for the incoming veterans at the beginning of the semester. Also on their calendar of events was a boatride on the Steamer President to which the entire student body was invited, several informal parties for its members, and an exhibition of war souvenirs which was a part of the Homecoming program. Numerous charitable drives, Christmas gifts for wounded veterans, the March of Dimes drive, and others have been part of its successful achievements.

Because of the greater numbers of veterans returning to the university each new semester, the Association is growing in size and importance among the other student groups on the campus.

TULANE VETERANS' ASSOCIATION

Scenes from the TVA Boatride.

Another Boatride Shot

The Vets Celebrate At a Beer Party.
It is a matter of considerable pride to those associated with the Tulane Law Review that it has continued publication throughout the war years. The predecessor of the Review, the Southern Law Quarterly, was interrupted in publication by World War I, and it was not until 1929 that publication was resumed under the new name, Tulane Law Review. It has therefore been considered of the first importance that the continuity of the Review should be maintained during this war so that no lengthy lapse in publication should again occur. It was likewise important to maintain the high traditions and technical skills of the Review, established by the years of devotion and effort of previous members, by passing them on, without interruption, from one group of student editors to another.

Credit for this exceptional performance under the most adverse circumstances rests mainly with the honor students of the Law School, few in number, who have carried on the very difficult and demanding labors of editing the Review during the lean war years and with the Secretary of the Review, Miss Gertrude Stein, who has served with her accustomed loyalty and diligence.

Entering into a period of peace the Review is now, as it has been for so many years, ready and able to continue its important function of training future lawyers in the fine art of legal research and writing and its equally important function of providing a great source of materials for Louisiana lawyers and for scholars of civil and comparative law throughout the world.

The Editorial Staff assembles for a weekly discussion.
The success a lawyer attains in his chosen profession depends to a large extent upon the amount of persuasiveness he can exert upon courts and juries. Most lawyers acquire this persuasive ability through experience, for few people have the inherent skill to think clearly and speak intelligently under conditions to be found in most courtrooms. The purpose of the Moot Court System in the College of Law is to provide experience along these lines by affording potential lawyers the opportunity to argue points of law under conditions closely similar to those found in a real court of justice. Administered by a group of students selected for their scholarship in research, brief-writing, and forensics, the Moot Court System is an indispensable cog in the machinery which produces able and well-trained lawyers.

As with every other activity of the Law School, the Moot Court Court System suffered the trials and tribulations brought about everywhere by the war. With few students left to carry on its tradition, the Moot Court Board had to adjust itself to operate on a day-to-day basis rather than on a year-to-year basis. The accelerated program produced problems which had never before manifested themselves. In spite of discouraging conditions, the Competition remained in operation even when Law Schools with a larger enrollment of students abandoned it for the duration. Aided by extremely able faculty guidance, the Board of Advisers managed, by a spirit of compromise and typical American ingenuity, to fulfill its functions.

Now, with the return of many veterans and the enrollment of new students, the Board of Advisers has plans for expansion and a resumption of the peace-time system of trial cases in the Junior-Senior Competition, which procedure was a casualty of the war. By September, 1946, the Competition will have resumed its normal methods of operation, thus assuring future law students of the opportunity to gain valuable and greatly needed experience.

MOOT COURT
With over 100 active chapters, one in every major university in the country, Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity, has sponsored on the Tulane campus this year, as in the past four years, blood drives, sales of Easter Seals, and T. B. Christmas Seal campaigns, and has assisted in the annual Easter Sunrise Service and ushered at football games.

The national fraternity, founded in 1925, at Lafayette College, in Pennsylvania, has as its purpose the assemblage of college men in the fellowship of the Scout Oath and Law, the development of friendship, and the promotion of service to humanity.
The principal purpose of the twenty-five-year-old Owl Club since its inception has been to promote in the faculty and student body a thorough understanding of the problems in teaching and in being taught courses of a medical curriculum. Its less tangible efforts have been directed toward the promotion of a high standard of professional ethics in the student body, and in maintaining Tulane in its place as one of the country’s foremost medical institutions.

Toward this, the Owl Club this year . . . in addition to full pursuit of its more traditional enterprises . . . has devoted most of its energy toward establishing the Tulane Medical Research Fund to be used for the maintenance and promotion of research within the school.

It is composed of twenty-four senior members chosen, half by the outgoing club, the remainder by the selectees.

Basing its selection of membership upon interest in the group, scholastic standing, faculty recommendation and group approval, the History of Medicine Society each year elects from the freshman class those fulfilling these standards. Founded in 1933, through the stimulus of Gordon Holcomb, Gres Dawson and Bernard Weinstein, the organization is primarily interested in tracing the developments and seeking factual information in its field.

Student members alternate with faculty members in presenting papers on medical history, although previously this was done by guest speakers and members of the medical school staff.

An annual event is the spring banquet, at which time the newly elected are presented with membership certificates, the officers for the next semester are introduced and awards to members are made. Among these are the Rudolph Matas Award for the best student paper presented during the year, the I. I. Lemann for the best discussion of a paper, and the B. B. Weinstein for the most outstanding individual research done by a student member.

Officers this year have been Sam Logan, president; Lewis Claypool, vice-president; James Stewart, senior secretary; William Vildibill, junior secretary; and William Patton, treasurer.
The Tulane "Math Club" was organized in 1940 by Dr. William Duren, Professor of Mathematics in the College of Arts and Sciences, and a group of students who wanted a little more of Euclid and Einstein than they got in their classes. Dr. John Thomson is the faculty adviser for the club. Both the faculty and those students studying elementary Calculus are eligible for membership.

Monthly meetings include informal talks by professors of the University on subjects of common interest, such topics being "The Romance of Mathematics," "Atomic Energy," "Non-Euclidian Geometry," and "Observational Astronomy." The more ambitious members at times present lectures.

Contrary to popular belief, the members do not sit in a corner and attempt to solve deep mathematical problems. Instead, part of each meeting is devoted to a social gathering during which members talk among themselves, eat refreshments, or, on clear nights, go to the observatory roof and see the stars through the telescope. Among the annual activities are a spring picnic and a party to which freshman math students are invited.

Mathematical wizards guiding the algebraic formulae are Jean Thibodeaux, president; Norwood Hymel, vice-president; Ed Hays, recording secretary; Myra Ziffle, corresponding secretary and treasurer; Jack Tallant, publicity chairman.

"To mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor upon their Alma Mater by exemplary character and distinguished scholarship as undergraduates, or by their attainments as alumni," Tau Beta Pi is the highest honor a student or graduate in engineering may attain. The Louisiana Chapter was installed on the campus in 1936, and carries out the organization's aims to develop and expand the principles and qualities of character, scholarship, and good will.

The officers for the past year were Chester Lob, president; Lloyd Salathe, vice-president; John Bensen, recording secretary; Jack Hinrichs, corresponding secretary; and R. C. Reid, cataloguer.

Realizing the vast amount of information obtainable from technical papers, the Tulane University branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers supplements the formal courses of instruction with the presentation of such papers at its meetings, and visits to points of engineering interest. Founded here in 1938, the group strives to advance knowledge of theory and practice in the field by these means and by contact with the faculty and with practicing engineers.

Although primarily technical in nature, the activities of the organization are not confined to professional ones. During the past semester its members have enjoyed social gatherings as well, in the form of truck rides, dances, and ball games—all of which went toward creating a feeling of fellowship and goodwill among the students of electrical engineering.
By studying and discussing contemporary developments in the field of mechanical engineering, the University branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers is training undergraduates in the profession.

At Tulane, the group’s activities follow the trend of similar engineering societies, with technical papers, lectures, discussions and field trips providing the educational background, and social gatherings by no means being neglected. Awards given to the students whose papers are judged best in content and presentation play a large part in the group’s competitive program.

Officers serving the group during the past semesters were Gus Perrin, president; Norvin Pellerin, vice-president; Lloyd Salathe, secretary; Harry Smith, treasurer.
Another of the several engineering societies whose aim it is to foster one of the branches within that field is the Tulane student chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, established on the campus in 1938. Membership is open to all interested in the advancement of the profession.

Lectures by prominent chemical engineers, papers prepared by the students, discussions led by faculty members, and motion pictures form the foundation for the group's monthly meetings. Supplemeting the encouragement of student interest in the field, it further creates a means of contact between the undergraduate and the practicing engineer.

Officers: Fall semester—J. L. Kotch, president; Bob Pierpont, vice-president; J. R. Willis, secretary; and C. M. Bennett, treasurer. Winter semester—Bob Pierpont, president; C. M. Bennett, vice-president; J. B. Willis, secretary; J. L. Girado, treasurer.

One of 123 student chapters throughout the United States which are affiliated with the American Society of Civil Engineers, the oldest national engineering organization of its kind in this country, the Tulane group was inaugurated here in 1944 as the replacement of the student branch established in 1933, whose charter became inactive during the war.

Composed of sophomores, juniors, and seniors in the School of Civil Engineering and carrying on its work through lectures and field trips, the Society is designed to develop a professional attitude in the students, and to help them in their work by bringing them into closer contact with experienced men in the field of Civil Engineering.

Professor F. W. MacDonald, associate professor of Civil Engineering has been appointed faculty adviser.
Alpha Chi Sigma, honorary society, aims toward the advancement of goodwill among the students of chemistry in all of the colleges, encouraging the student's interest in that field. It does all possible to foster the ambitions of students while in school and after graduation.

Twice a year the Alpha Tau chapter, established at Tulane in 1928, sponsors essay contests in the public high schools and in the University freshman chemistry classes. It further sponsors a safety program within the department and has its own display case in Richardson Memorial Chemistry Building.

This year's officers included Bob Pierpont, master alchemist; Grady Horne, vice-master alchemist; George Leachman, treasurer; George Nusloch, recorder; Ed Volkert, master of ceremonies; and Jeff Willis, reporter. Dr. C. J. Likes is faculty adviser.

One of the newest organizations on the campus is the Tulane-Newcomb chapter of the Student Affiliates of the American Chemical Society, which was established here during the summer session of 1945. With Dr. Thomas B. Crumpler as its faculty adviser, the group functions to stimulate interest in the more modern advances in chemistry. Members have the opportunity to teach, learn, and to express themselves in the various branches of their chemical interests by the presentation of originally prepared papers, and by informal discussions.

Officers are Seymour Rosenwasser, president; J. G. Willis, vice-president; and Nora Ann Carroll, secretary-treasurer.
Composed chiefly of girls during the war, the ranks of the Tulane Architectural Society are gradually being increased by the return of a large number of veterans to the school. Founded in 1913, it is one of the older organizations in the College of Engineering.

Sponsoring lectures by practicing architects and contractors, giving wiener roasts on the lakefront, holding weekly meetings, and carrying out other extensive plans, the group seeks to get all architectural students together in a social and professional bond. By thus supplementing school work, it creates an air of friendly informality between faculty and student.

Future plans call for changes in the physical set-up of the school, orientation of freshmen, tours of building sites in the city, and, in May, a costume ball.

President of the organization is Leo Dufrechou. Serving in other offices are Paul Burns, vice-president; John Rock, secretary; Pat Morvant, treasurer; and Earl Forestall, sergeant-at-arms. J. H. Thomson is faculty adviser.
Promoting school spirit within the College of Engineering, and coordinating and supplementing the activities of the various student branches of the school, the Engineers' Technological Atelier, founded in 1936, is an honorary society which gives the student an opportunity for research on technical papers, presented at the annual Forum. Election to ETA is based on interest shown in engineering problems and projects.

Among its events are the St. Patrick's dance, which is open to the entire student body, the Engineer's Smoker and the Forum.

Officers for the past year were Preston Mottram, president; John Smallpage, vice-president; Duncan Gray, secretary; and R. C. Reid, treasurer.

Kappa Delta Phi was founded at Tulane in 1904 as an honorary fraternity for the promotion of Tulane spirit. Each year it selects from the junior and senior classes and graduate school, men who have been conspicuous for school spirit and for distinguished and unselfish loyalty and endeavors during their university careers. One faculty member is recognized for outstanding service.

Kappa Delta Phi has a two-fold purpose. It confers membership upon those signally effective and successful in promoting university spirit and advancing university enterprise and it binds together these men into an organization dedicated to further endeavor in behalf of Tulane.

Any student of Newcomb College is eligible for membership in the Young Women's Christian Association, which meets twice monthly for open discussions, talks by outstanding civic personalities, and debates. Taking an active part in freshman orientation, the "Y", established in 1901, presents a program of well-rounded events to aid the freshman in becoming acquainted with activities of the college.

With the Young Men's Christian Association of Tulane, it annually sponsors the Easter Sunrise Service, held on the quadrangle of Newcomb Campus. In addition, it gives an Easter Party for a group of children from a local orphanage. During the fall, it sponsors a drive for the Word Student Service Fund, while other traditions are the Christmas Party given for both the students and faculty and the "Y" decorated tree placed in the main hall of the administration building. Plans for next year include field trips to study conditions in connection with discussions on industrial work and social service work.

Evangelism and Unity. A Wednesday morning Holy Communion and breakfast, and a Tuesday evening study group are held at the Episcopal Student Center.

Among the projects undertaken since its reorganization was the opening of a Service Center at Christ Church Cathedral to provide recreation for servicemen at Tulane, the establishing of a lay readers group, and the sending of delegates to the Episcopal College Conference at Louisiana State University.

The Tulane-Newcomb Canterbury Club was organized in May, 1944, and is a member of the National Association of Canterbury Clubs, which had its beginning at the New York State Teachers' College in 1918. Organized nationally to serve in aiding in the extension of Christian endeavor and fellowships in college life, the clubs have set forth clearly defined aims in six fields of activity which include Prayer, Study, Service, Giving,
A bit of hymn singing opens a regular Tuesday afternoon meeting.

An organization which represents, includes, and unifies all of the Baptist student activities on the campus, the Baptist Student Union seeks to preserve the relationship of the student with his church and to continue the religious education which his home church has begun. Thus, it acts as a connecting link between the college and the church.

Pledging itself to promote the Christian movement, and to spread the Christian spirit by all means and at all times, the group welcomes those who share its ideals.

In its various activities it desires to enlist Baptist students in a fellowship of church and social life; to unite the strength of the students in any program of special religious emphasis which may be undertaken; to interpret the faith in a way pertinent to the needs of the day; and to unite the intellectual with the religious in such a way as to produce the Maximum Life.
The Newman Club

The Newman Club is a club of Catholic culture and fellowship organized in order to deepen the spiritual consciousness and enrich the temporal lives of its members through a balanced program of religious, educational and social activities. It strives to weld the Catholic students into a common union and to assist the university whenever possible.

The Tulane-Newcomb Newman Club is one of the 500-odd Catholic clubs existing today on the campuses of non-sectarian colleges and universities in America. It is a member of the Gulf States Province and National Federation of Newman Clubs and of the National Catholic Youth Council.

Activities of the Newman Club range from corporate communions, discussion study clubs, retreats, lectures, dances, picnics and parties. It brings the Catholic students together through the various social activities and enables the individual student to become acquainted with other students of his own faith on the campus and to form friendships more beneficial than chance acquaintanceships made through other agencies.

Beginning as a small study group at Newcomb in 1941, the Newman Club now has more than 250 members at the University.

At present a comparatively small group compared with its former pre-war sizes, the Tulane Y.M.C.A. offers a common working ground for all young men on the campus interested in organizational practice of Christian ideals. It offers a channel, in the forms of various projects, through which practice of personal ideals may be directed as contribution to a common group effort and acceptance of the responsibility involved.

Some of the projects maintained under normal functioning of the group include sponsorship of monthly vespers services, the annual Easter Sunrise Service which it conducts in cooperation with the Newcomb Y.W.C.A., Christmas decorations in front of Gibson Hall, and assistance in such student activities as blood drives, the sales of Christmas Seals and War Bonds, and support of the annual Doll and Toy Fund.

This year has been primarily devoted to reorganization, and rather than sponsoring projects, the "Y" has been preoccupied in acquainting the members of its cabinet and executive council with their duties as defined in the constitution and in presenting to the entire membership a preview of the responsibilities involved in organizational project work.

The spirit of its response to post-war reorganization is a promise of whole-hearted devotion to the tasks of the future and a challenge to the incoming young men on the Tulane campus.

The 1945 Easter Sunrise Service, held on the Newcomb Quadrangle.
The Alpha Upsilon chapter of Gamma Delta was established at Tulane in 1942, and has since become one of the prominent religious groups on the campus. The national organization was founded in 1934 in Chicago by representatives from 20 midwestern universities.

The purpose of the group is to encourage and maintain Lutheran fellowship and to establish fraternal relations with other Lutheran organizations. Adviser to the campus chapter is the Reverend A. H. Beselski.

The Wesley Foundation, representing the Methodist student movement on the Tulane University campus, seeks to provide for the spiritual, moral, and social needs of the student, by serving as his church-home while he attends college. Organized in 1944, it has since engaged in a varied program of lectures and discussions designed to lead students to a victorious Christian life and to develop a spirit of fellowship through wholesome recreation. More than three hundred students of the University's colleges are given an opportunity to aid in the World Service projects of the Foundation, and the group invites all Christian students to join in its active program.

The Foundation has sought varied techniques toward achieving the goals of leading students to a vital, personal relationship with God, to a development of a supporting group in which individuals will mutually strengthen one another in Christian living; and, lastly, to a development of a new world order embodying Christian principles and conservation of the highest human values.

Functioning in the manner to place emphasis on the social and personal problems with which students must cope in a Christian way, the Westminster Fellowship, meeting weekly provides the means whereby Presbyterian students of Tulane and Newcomb may seek to experience and to express vital, victorious Christian living through Jesus Christ.

Organization, program emphasis, and varied service and social activities are among the aims of the group, which is known for its informality. This year it sponsored a campus lecture, open to all interested, by the inspiring Dr. Peter Marshall, visiting minister from Washington, D. C., who each year presents a series of talks in New Orleans.

Greek-letter groups are well represented on the university campus, and definite centers of activity are the fraternities.
This year saw a change in the rushing system, as the Newcomb Pan-Hellenic Council, under the guidance of President Gayle Baldinger, put off the customary rush week from that time which conflicted with Orientation activities until the prospective rushees had settled down to the serious business of finding their way around Newcomb. As part of Orientation, however, the Council sponsored a meeting at which it explained to all incoming students its functions and rushing rules.

More recently, the annual scholarship banquet, honoring outstanding sorority members, was held and an award made to the active and pledge having the highest scholastic average of the whole group. Sorority Skit Night, always a popular event, was presented according to annual custom, and the cup given to that organization producing the best skit.

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL
Big thrill of the year for the Alpha Delta Pi's was the visit paid their rooms by the 1946 Maid of Cotton, a sister from Duke University, whom they feted with a party in February. Second in interest was the Christmas-time wrapping and delivering of gifts to servicemen of LaGarde hospital.

Their claim to the campus spotlight is the fact that they supplied, according to their records, half of the yodlers in this year's Gilbert and Sullivan, not to mention the ex-secretary-ship and now presidency of the Newcomb Pan Hellenic Council. They also indulged in a bit of a whirl with football parties every week, and a whooping big formal in February.

Epsilon Chapter
Epsilon Chapter

This year for the members of Alpha Epsilon Phi sorority seems to have been a big one. Monthly informal get-togethers, in the form of active-pledge suppers, an annual spring formal, and other smaller affairs kept the girls running.

Another activity in which the gals did their bit toward entertaining GI's their Sunday morning breakfast-serving at the USO. Members in the limelight include vice-president of the student body, a cheerleader, and members filling the rolls of IRC, Forum, Art Club, and other active campus groups.

These wearers of green and white came to Newcomb as the Epsilon chapter in 1916.

EMILY BADT
President
Barnard-born in 1897 Alpha Omicron Pi first colonized the Newcomb campus shortly following when some Newcomb skirts heard about the wonderful new idea. They succeeded in getting the second chapter of the group here, and now they claim to be the oldest surviving one of the sorority.

Though the Pi chapter members know they've been active this year [scan the Homecoming Court member-list, the Honor Board Prexy, and a few other events of the year], they don't seem able to recall but one big social event—their formal in March.

Soon after this, they adopted a war orphan and shared the thrill of "doing something useful" with their sisters at L. S. U.

Pi Chapter
The Beta Sigma Omicrons this year stepped into the social whirl entertaining their visiting L. S. U. sisters, throwing several informal parties and banquets, dashing across the Lake for houseparties, and honoring the return of Carnival with a Mardi Gras Masquerade.

They showed their leaning toward the educational side of life, however, by coming out, as usual, high in the scholastic ranking of the sororities (also witness BSO's on the Dean's List), and by presenting their annual English award.

Their founding was in 1888, Columbia, Missouri, being the locale, and the Alpha Sigma chapter took over in 1929. Their present family includes the former editor of the Hullabaloo, a few staff members thereon, several theatrically-inclined sisters, and the corresponding secretary of the student body.

Alpha Sigma Chapter
Boasting a national roster of 98 chapters, the belles of Newcomb’s Rho branch of Chi Omega have dashed about the campus since 1900.

The Chi O’s are known there for “copping the cup” on last year’s Sorority Campus Night, and for those gals who preside over the dormitory council, the senior class, and campus night. Their favorite activities are house parties in Waveland and Slidell, and their favorite topic is the 50-year celebration of Chi O last year, and the nationwide gathering of the group.

Keeping the cheerleaders in the family is the custom of the Delta Zetas whose claim to these campus pests is more than temporary, as far as they are concerned. They also like to say they're proud of placing almost annually on the Sorority Skit Nights.

Born at Miami University in 1902, their Beta Upsilon chapter has been residing here since 1938, when they merged with an already established sorority.

Among this year's activities, they boast of re-decorating their rooms, declaring that "even if the wall-paperer did think us crazy for papering only ONE wall, we like to think the rooms are sophisticated."

In the social vein are parties, for and by the pledges, the annual Founders' Day banquet, the usual post-exam truck ride to bolster everyone's morale, and their formal in May-time.

Beta Upsilon Chapter
This year Kappa Alpha Theta can really have its brag. The Pikes selected delicious dish Betty Bau-cum as their Dream Girl, while strikingly brunette Rite Copenhaver won similar top honors with the Sigma Chis. Though it'll probably take years for the scores to recover from that much glory it can't be denied that that's quite a feat for any sorority.

But beauty honors aren't all, since the Thetas have their share of campus leaders as well. President of the Sophomore class, secretary and treasurer of Junior class are all Thetas.

Alpha Phi Chapter
Seventy-five years is a long time, but the Kappa Kappa Gammas managed to round off just that many this year, complete with all the trimmings of a celebration.

Politicking is their mainstay—this year was a successful one and next year’s student body boss claims the Kappa heritage as her own. But this was only one of their sidelines, as they also list Nurses’ Aide work, collecting boxes of food for Christmas (and for whom, girls?), and “all of that stuff,” which could include anything the imagination would desire.

Thirty-one years after the birth of the organization at Monmouth, the Beta Omicron chapter was established here—and if you’re not mathematically minded, that makes it 1904.

The Phi Mus didn't do badly this year. Their queenpin around the rooms has headed Pan-Hellenic for the past year and her younger sister has done quite well with the operetta.

One of their clan is the new chairman of the Newcomb Athletic Council, and another claims the doubtful honor of having been one of the Urchin's cover girls.

Back in January they threw a big dance which was probably pretty good. In March they went picnicking, and, not satisfied with one brawl, they dragged out the glad rags again this spring. And the Mothers' Club gave a tea for the new pledges—and that's about all.

Delta Chapter
All sororities like to boast of their outstanding sisters, so Pi Beta Phi starts right off by listing the achievements of theirs: president of the student body, of the YW, of the Athletic Council, and several members of various beauty courts.

The girls must all be excellent painters by now, for, this summer, they took over the redecoration of their house, and can today show off their hand-painted residence. Their other activities may be classified under War Work, Nurses’ Aide, and, now, Reconstruction. After all this they still find time to do quite a bite of housepartying.

Alpha Chapter

The Pi Phis began in 1867 at Monmouth College and were the first sorority to open up on the campus, being established here in 1891.
ZETA TAU ALPHA

Beta Kappa Chapter

Bandage-rolling for the Red Cross, voluntary Nurses' Aide work, truck rides, Easter houseparties, and a traditional banquet where newly-engaged girls indulge in a specially-prescribed ritual, have done their share toward keeping the members of Zeta Tau Alpha in a whirl this year.

Outstanding in campus activities, their sisters holding prominent student positions, the Zetas were first brought to Newcomb in 1927, just 29 years after their founding, and have obviously been here ever since. Among their coveted achievements are officers of Tri-Beta, swimming honors, a member of the Sigma Chi sweetheart court, and some sisters on the Dean's list.

A special occasion is always the truck ride to the Colonial Country Club which is looked forward to by all Zeta members.

Among the med frats the Nu Sigs think they're pretty good. Though they were founded in 1882 this campus was spared until 1910.

They gave the "Rah-Rah" for several of their recent social functions. Top on the list in order of popularity were the Hallowe'en and Gay-Nineties parties. Anybody who got dragged in on one was bettered intellectually by "enlightening" floor shows.

It is also said that the barn on St. Charles Avenue which strains at the seams with med students has had a face-lifting recently, with an entire repainting and redecorating job. Frankly, it probably didn't help much but if they like it—what's the dif?

Beta Iota Chapter
Medics of Phi Chi breezed gaily into the limelight this fall when they dug deep into their money-bags and purchased a new, more spacious residence on the Avenue. They say it was all made possible through enthusiastic alumni support and the hard work of the chapter members. Well, anyway, a Life photographer used up batches of film and bulbs capturing moving-day scenes, so they're still happy, (the boys, we mean). The new house—that's all any member can talk of these days—provides living quarters for approximately 35 fellows, with many improvements on the third floor, especially the library, being the work of the members themselves. Untiring in their efforts, aren't they?

Med students think they're the hardest-working students because most of their time is spent in the downtown school where we on the uptown site can't prove their boasting about studying so much. Got to admit they're pretty hard to contact.

Take the Phi Delta Epsilons for example. Whatever it is keeping them so busy, we won't guess—they tell us it has been things like a big feed for their new members, football parties every Saturday, a tea dance with the L. S. U. Phi D E's (good-neighbor policy), a Mardi Gras truck ride, and a dinner dance honoring one Dr. Leo Crip, a past Grand Consul of the chapter, and alumni returning from the service.

Alpha Iota Chapter
Although its sole purpose is not the promotion of social activities, as evidenced by accomplishments of recent graduates Tom Gus Baffes and Rodney Jung, who were both at the top of the senior class, this year’s events for the Phi Rho Sigma fraternity were begun with rush week, and included a smoker, banquet, dance, and lakefront picnic.

Each month, the boys have held an informal dance, with September’s taking the form of yachting excursion. Also on the social side were a Hallowe’en celebration, a dance following initiation ceremonies, and a Mardi Gras truck ride which culminated in an informal dance.

Delta Omicron Alpha Chapter
Chief contribution made by the Theta Kappa Psi fraternity to the medical school Pan-Hellenic Council this year is its president, who also serves as big boss for that frat. According to the boys, they have been quite active—socially—this year, witness "Lotsa informal house parties on Saturday nights," frequent beer and shrimp suppers, and "other things."

Their main function this year was their Winter formal, which followed a picnic on Bayou Lafitte earlier in the fall. If you saw "The Lost Weekend" looking found in the carnival day parade of truck—it was the Theta Kaps.

Among the special parties this year were those for Hallowe'en and Christmas, and their traditional senior dance.
All work and no play make the medics eager-beavers, so not to let their undergraduate brothers of the fraternity circle outdo them, the Alpha Beta chapter of Alpha Kappa Kappa fraternity showed up with hayrides, Hallowe’en and Christmas parties, and a dinner in honor of Dr. Wilbur C. Smith, departing alumnus who enriched the group with the donation of his personal medical library.

During the past year they have directed their activities chiefly toward creating a more active alumni interest in the chapter—social as well as financial!

The boys are not a bit handicapped by the return of their borrowed house to the Phi Deltas, and there has been no slow down of the scheduled social plans. Foremost on reconversion plans, however, is a new lodging place for the brothers.
PHI LAMBDA KAPPA

Psi Chapter

Another of the professional fraternities in the medical school, Phi Lambda Kappa this year "came of age" in the marking of its twenty-first year on the campus.

Honoring the freshman members in the fall was an initiation-banquet, at which several outstanding alumni spoke, and, during April, the chapter feted graduating seniors with a banquet and dinner-dance. Other events included several picnics, and after-football-game gatherings at the home of an alumnus.

JACK KUSHNER

In addition to conducting the regular competitive sports activities, the Tulane Pan-Hellenic Council this year has established a fellowship in the Graduate School of Medicine. To be awarded on the basis of scholarship regardless of fraternity or non-fraternity status of the candidate, the fellowship will be supported by the contribution of $1 per semester by each undergraduate fraternity member. The first grant will be made in September of this year by the Dean of the Graduate School, the Dean of the School of Medicine, and the faculty adviser to the Council.

Currently under legislation of the Council is the rewriting of Rushing Rules in a more concise and brief form. The annual formal sponsored by the group was held this year during the winter semester.

"We are rip, rip-roaring reprobates."—That's Alpha Tau Omega's musical signal. Pass their shack on Henry Clay most any Saturday night and you'll hear those words and others floating out through the windows as the brothers float out the doors. Each ATO cherishes among other signs of high intellectual interests, "Sneaky Pete Parties."

The quick turn-over in personnel at Tulane has naturally depleted their ranks from one semester to another, but somehow they manage to keep going and come up with a couple of Pan-Hellenic Trophies every now and then. ATOs boast a large number of war veterans in their present membership. Over 50 percent in fact have worked for Uncle Sam and are now re-taking their places in college life.

Louisiana Beta Epsilon Chapter
Beta Xi Chapter

By winning baseball and placing in football, swimming, ping-pong, and bridge, the boys of Beta Theta Pi are now second among their brothers in the Pan-Hellenic sports competition, an activity in which they have won first place for five out of the last six years. This, and their Saturday night parties, luncheons, midnight picnics, and truck rides, all topped off by their spring formal, give them a fair share of campus fame.

Commanding the hungry Greeks and aiding to double the fold during a mere eight months were Joe Rault, Dusty Anderson, and George LeGardieur. Thirty-eight years at the University were celebrated by the Beta Xi chapter this past session.

O. M. ANDERSON
President
Not the least of the gay caballeros of Tulane are the Tau Lambda's of Delta Kappa Epsilon. Probably their most famous and most outstanding characteristic is their great love for the "Deke Marching Song" which they shout from the alcoves of their Henry Clay hovel, much to the intrigue of the neighbors, whom they equally annoy whilst indulging in a second favored pastime—marching hither and yon, 'round and about the Avenue at most peculiar nocturnal hours.

But, even then, the boys are pretty prominent in campus affairs, holding an annual winter formal, copping first spot in the Pan-Hellenic football tournament, and placing second in the swimming meet.

Tau Lambda Chapter
Bayou Brawls, moss trimmings, alligators, corn liquor, candlelight parties, and traditional Sailor Balls are on the itinerary of the Delta Sigma Phi boys who put another year and another page in the history of their fraternity. Pulling a few strings—or beer caps—they came up with a unique musical comedy tagged "Frankie and Johnny" to grab second place on Fraternity Campus Night, then rated second with their Homecoming decoration, "Plow the Irish."

In sports, they claimed first in Pan-Hellenic handball, and claimed outstanding BMOCS Larry Taylor, top-kick for Campus Night, Hank Millon, who hid the Greenbacker constitution so he could be president an extra semester, and Moose Doerries, who was "just a reg'lar fellah."

Chi Chapter
One of their many excuses for eating themselves out of house and home is the Delta Tau Delta annual Dinner Dance on New Year's Day. But, they really do no worrying about it for now their chief bragging point is that they have a house and what's more, a good cook!

With the close of another year of Delt good times, came the annual winter formal. Preceded by a cocktail party, it proved to be one of the most colorful campus social events. As do the other fraternal orders, they look forward to more and better good times with the advent of their first post-war year.
By way of welcoming the return of Newcomb to the college classrooms in the fall, the Kappa Alphas opened the season with a startling but enjoyable "Bloomer Buster" party. Following close on the heels of this was a Homecoming party, a Yuletide affair, and, true to Southern tradition, a Robert E. Lee banquet...

Famed in pre-war days for their Cotton Balls, the KAs are now planning for the first post-war affair of this nature, with new members and returning veterans looking forward to it. Lots of hard work went into the re-opening of the chapter house and its redecoration by the members themselves.

Psi Chapter
After ten months of relative hibernation, the Kappa Nu members merged from their cocoons with a bang, and finally threw open the doors to their inner sanctum, taking in new members so that the old ones wouldn't have to drink the aging home-brew alone.

Rallying their spirits, in the form of actives and alumni, the chapter sallied forth to find a home, and their caps now hang in the Broadway manse. Just before their fall formal, the boys met for a cocktail party, and, needless to say, both were considered great successes.

Sigma Chapter

NOT IN PANEL: Norman Myhoff, Herbert Moskowitz, Joseph Nelkin, Stanley Orloff.
Old Father Time has marked up another notch for the Sigma chapter of Kappa Sigma. Purple Passion parties, a banquet in honor of a visiting national officer, and the debut of "Sigma Speaks," a bi-monthly news letter of the chapter's activities, left their marks on the wearers of the Scarlet, White, and Green.

Chalking up first in the Pan-Hellenic ping-pong tourney, they were "in there fighting" hard during each sport event of the year. Postponed during the war, their famous Pirate Party, long a traditional event on the campus, will soon be resumed, when the time presents itself.

STANLEY CARPENTER
President
"Back home for keeps" rang through the halls of the "State Street Shelter" when, on January 1, the Phi Delta Thetas moved lock, stock, and beer barrel back into their home. Absent for over a year, the boys, mostly wearing the navy blue of V-12, made use of naval sacks while their house was sheltering another fraternity.

This year was begun by stepping into number one position in the Pan-Hellenic swim meet, followed by a mere third place in softball, a second in football, then first in the bridge tourney. The Phi Delts like to brag on Brothers Sims and Cantrell, who did their best toward keeping up the Phi's scholastic standing, and Berry, who was the guiding hand behind Pan-Hel Council.

Louisiana Alpha Chapter
Way back when gran'papa dashed around in his turtleneck sweater, the skull and crossbones of Phi Kappa Sigma made their appearance on the Tulane campus to be the first fraternity here. From that time on, the group has been one of the leading at school.

Rescuing their Broadway home, they reopened its doors on occasion of cocktail parties, Saturday night informal gatherings, and other social events. Plauché gave up his position as house manager before taking over the Hullabaloo co-editorship en route to BMOC-ship. Viggo Olsen handled love affairs, while "Ducky" Riess of the faculty kept the boys on the straight and narrow.

In Pan-Hellenic competition, the Phi Kaps took third with their Homecoming display.
The Pi Kappa Alphas, who tagged second place in the Pan-Hellenic softball tourney, are just about bursting at the seams with BMOC's—witness two Phi Beta Kappas, two successive A. & S. presidents, two successive Lagniappes presidents, two cheerleaders, a Tau Beta Pi electee, and business manager of the Jamb who also served as president of Kappa Delta Phi. During the height of the social season on the campus, the Pikes topped off their gay series of entertainments with the presentation of Dream Girl Betty Baucum, a luscious armful of dream for anyone!

The Eta chapter of Tulane, taking second in the Pan-Hel bridge tourney, too, looks forward with renewed vigor to her first post-war year, as many members return from the service to complete interrupted educations.

A year of post war fraternal success spangled with numerous parties and people was the Sig Alph's pleasure in the last eight months. The November Barn Dance, Plantation Night at Black's famous home, and the Audubon Interfraternity Massacre are unforgettable as are Tex Smith's cowboy boots, Harry Cabral's mad 30-day leave, and the doom of "The Comb."

Sid Pate ran the Jamb, "Swat" Swardson played Hulla Co-Ed, Yak-Yak Farinet was Campus Night chairman, and "Itchy" Wheat was just around. Pellerin made Ensign, Le Mieux made BMOC, Jake Muller made a date on the first phone call, and everybody made merry on the Mardi Gras truck ride. No tears, no house, but lots of good times.

Tau Upsilon Chapter
With the coming of 1945, the Tulanian band of Sigma Alpha Mu celebrated 25 years on the campus, and the event was marked by a dinner dance worthy of a silver anniversary.

Further entertaining, the Sammies entered the social swing with numerous parties, several picnics, and other affairs during the summer and fall seasons. In Pan-Hellenic sports competition, they managed to take a fourth place in tennis and a third in the football tournament.

Sigma Gamma Chapter
The Cross of Sigma Chi has not been idle on the campus this year. The '45 session has seen its wearers holding top student offices in the Naval ROTC battalion, in class and student body politics.

Early in the spring, the presentation of their sweetheart took the campus spotlight as her identity was sought before it was revealed at the formal dance. Social events also enjoyed were hayrides, a Christmas eggnog party, an L. S. U. weekend affair, and open house for Homecoming activities.

The boys who were known as the Secret Six at the beginning of the year have gone far, and now overflow their hovel across the way from Newcomb. The traditional Alumni Banquet was followed by a series of picnics at Fountainebleau Park, watermelon parties, and hayrides—all of which, they think, shows they have definitely gone hayseed.

Rounding out the year for the carriers of the famed Lil' Brown Jug was the customary Christmas party at which members swapped presents depicting the character of the recipients.

Omicron Chapter
Fun, frolicking, and feasting was the order of the day when the Tulane chapter of Zeta Beta Tau met on the middle ground of Covington with the LSUians for an all-day picnic, which highlighted their social program for this year.

During the football season, open house after each game was held, and culminated in a large gathering of the old grads at Homecoming. Intermingled with these events were dances, truck rides, treasures hunts, stags, and a banquet honoring new members.

In Pan Hellenic events, the Zebes copped the ping-pong trophy, and placed in football and baseball.
Founded in 1931 as the result of a fusion of Sigma Iota and Phi Lambda Alpha, established in Tulane in 1924 and 1912, respectively, the Delta chapter of Phi Iota Alpha fraternity consists of Latin and Central American students in the university. Each year it offers a medal to the winner of a contest for the selection of the best essay in Spanish on any one of a series of Latin American subjects written by a non-Spanish-speaking student of Tulane.

It endeavors to sponsor talks by outstanding Latin American personalities, one such being delivered last fall by Dr. Salvador Mendieta, the "number one" leader of the Central-American unionist movement, author of several books on the subject, professor of constitutional law in several Latin-American universities, and honorary member of the fraternity.
All work and no play, goes the proverbial saying, so Tulane, too, looks out for a well-rounded curriculum, turning to a proportionate amount of Athletics.
In the final year of World War II, Tulane kept up its all-around intercollegiate athletic program as it had since the very beginning when others less hardy chose the easier path of discontinuing sports competition.

But the Green Wave had none-too-kind a year in its six major fields of endeavor. Though it had held its own in the early days of the war, Tulane began to feel the real manpower pinch and in 1945 it recorded little that will stand out in the history of the school's athletic program.

HORACE RENEGAR
Director of Public Relations
The best sport of the year was Coach Monk Simons' baseball team that enjoyed a season comparable to the best in the annals of the University. Only those teams of by-gone days when Eddie Morgan and Carl Lind starred had records anywhere near as good as the '45 Greenie nine.

Golf and tennis were about on a par for the Wave. These two teams acquitted themselves well and had better than average records. Coach Ernie Sutter's net team played hard and often with successful results.

The Wave's track and field athletes showed some improvement over the year before and with a little more luck and punch would have turned in a most successful season. They won the S. L. I. relays and placed third in the S. E. C. meet.

Football and basketball found the Green Wave at low tide. The basketballers and the footballers alike found the opposition too tough, and though they did their best, it was not enough to crown with success the efforts of the Green Wave.
"DASHING DICK" HOOT
Hard-running Halfback
The 1945 football season at Tulane called for the toughest schedule any Green Wave eleven had been asked to face in 52 years, but provided only a wartime "freshman" team with which to meet it. It was a case of one of those "postwar dream" schedules and only a wartime squad to cope with it.

But not the least awed by the big names which confronted it, the Green Wave set itself to meet week after week, the toughies which it was called upon to face.

It was a team, freely sprinkled with rookie players straight up from the prep ranks, with a few early-returned war veterans and just the barest of help from the Naval ROTC unit which had the year before been so productive.

In its nine games, the Greenies seemed to do their best when the odds were against them. They highlighted their season with performances against the grid giants, but marred it by falling prey to the not-so-well regarded lesserlights.

High water mark of the season came when the Wave assumed tidal proportions to roll convincingly over a Mississippi State team which previously had been unbeaten. A much-abused Green Wave burst the State bowl bubble when it least expected it.

Secondary feature of the year came after 30 minutes had been played against the Mighty Irish and the Green Wave had not only held the titans scoreless, but had assumed a one-touchdown lead through sheer intestinal fortitude.
Greenies, 'Gators IN MUDDY DRAW

TULANE, 6; FLORIDA, 6

In its curtain-raiser with the 'Gators of the University of Florida, Tulane ran into more trouble than it expected. Slippery footing spoiled the well-planned inaugural appearance of the "T" formation to which Greenie fans had looked forward.

Up and down the field the Wave raged, showing off its new pass attack. But fumbling and a lack of scoring punch denied each Tulane attempt to cross paydirt. On paper the Wave should have won by a mile, but in reality it took a last-minute "Merriwell" pass from Ray Arthur to Tony Cash to tie up the ball game at 6-6. The 'Gators had made their only score in the third quarter after taking advantage of one of the Wave's many fumbles. It was the first college appearance for many of the frosh who badly demonstrated the need of more experience.

TULANE, 7; RICE, 13

The Rice game, next up for the Wave, and the only one on the road all season, was a case of trying too hard. Determined to prove its ability and to get into the win column, the Greenies all week long spent gruelling hours on the practice field. And that's where they left their play, for at Houston, the Wave met an inspired Rice eleven which never gave it a chance and which completely upset the well-laid Tulane plans, 13-7.

After Rice had taken a 13-0 lead at halftime, the Wavemen got back into the game in the third period with a TD on an aerial, Ernie Crouch to Marvin McCain. And though the Greenies held the Owls scoreless, they themselves never could get across the goal-line to change the complexion of the contest.

There was real reason for hope as the situation brightened after the playing of the Auburn game. The Wave was beaten, 20-14, but it had given a good account of itself and until the final whistle, had tried valiantly to take command of the situation.

In fact, a last-minute interception halted what might have been the game-tying touchdown for the Wave. Again it was the Wave's newly-mastered aerial prowess that paid off. After the Tigers had gotten off to a 13-0 advantage, the Green Wave spiritedly kept up its efforts to score. And it did, on a 66-yard completion of a pass from Bill Leahy to Ray Arthur.
WAVE MAULS Mustangs

TULANE, 19; S.M.U., 7

Still in there pitching, Tulane, playing with the services of Dick Hoot for the first time this season, scored again in the third stanza on a toss good for 20 yards from Leahey to Hoot.

The Wave's Hugh Bowers, smallish center, put his name on the lips of grid enthusiasts with another great game. Since the season's start, Hugh had played for all he was worth and until hurt later in the season, his center play was a feature of the Wave's season.

Reaching loftier heights, the Green Wave broke into the win column with a convincing 19-7 verdict over a well-regarded Southern Methodist team. Coming into his own for the first time, after overcoming an early season injury, was the Navy's "Dashing Dick" Hoot. It was the hard charging of Hoot that finally got the Wave ground game into gear for the first time. But no little credit for victory was due to the alert pass defense of Quarterback Ernie Crouch, who twice plucked Mustang missiles from the blue to turn them into Green Wave touches.

It looked as though the Greenies had made another fatal mistake when the Mustangs turned a first-period fumble into a score that sent them off into the lead. In the second quarter, the diminutive Crouch, 147 pounds of energy, took matters into his own hands by converting a Pony pass into a 30-yard Tulane touchdown trek. From here out, the Wave was on the march and with Hoot on the offensive and Jack Counce successfully countering the punting of the Mustangs' Maley, the Wave took over.

Hoot plunged across shortly after Bowers had recovered an S. M. U. fumble and for another "first" of the season, the Wave was ahead. Though the Texans pulled every trick that their passing wizardry allowed, still the "not-to-be-denied" Tulanians stood them off. And in the third period, the deal was clinched when the ever-alert Crouch scampered 50 yards with another "borrowed" Mustang aerial.

Coach Monk Simons' boys drew national attention to their giant-killing and caused not a little uneasiness for their opponent and the next opponent of the Maroons when the Green Wave arose from the early-season depths to the season's highest pitch with a 14-13 upset of a State team that had previously bowled over four foes.
There were many commendable features of this game. Chief among these was the fact that a dozen freshmen contributed in a large measure to the success achieved. There were many who could have been written up as "heroes."

Harry Levonian whose faithful foot twice sent the pigskin soaring through the uprights for the all-important conversions was one of these . . . Dave Rideout and Dave Banowetz, whose bull-like charges when the going was the toughest, set up the winning score . . . Hugh Carney who got into his first game to aid on the defense . . . Gaston Bourgeois' herculean efforts in the shadow of his own goal posts which twice kept the Maroons from reaching paydirt . . . Hugh Bowers again . . . Roy Bailey and his coverage on punts that sent receivers reeling . . . Walter Fergerson and Dick Hoot with their contributions to victory.

But it was a "team" victory, sweet for every Greenie who had toiled long and hard the week before in anticipation of just such a moment of glory. The whole line from end to end had withstood the rabbit-like jumping of State's touted Harper Davis and their Don Robinson. The victory-hungry Mississippian counted on little resistance from an underdog Tulane team. And when they pushed over their first touchdown hardly five minutes after the start of the game on Robinson’s hard running, there were the State rooters calling for more touchdowns.

It wasn’t long until they got more than they asked for because in one sharp, well-executed play the Green Wave covered 68 yards on a perfect pass from Crouch to Hoot. And when the sure-footed Levonian booted the point, the Green Wave moved to the fore. State, a little flabbergasted at this show of strength, called into play its big "gun," Harper Davis, who many said couldn’t be stopped. He did come through this once and, before the halftime whistle, had jockeyed the visitors into a 13-7 lead.

What was said between the halves in the Tulane dressing room is not a matter of record. But it led to a second-half performance which long will stand as the height of determination and team play.

In the middle of the third period as the seconds ticked off and the Wave was kept in its own territory, things looked none too bright. But there was a spark that ignited every Tulanian when Dave Banowetz tore through the middle for a 29-yard gain. And when Dave Rideout followed this up with a 47-yard dash to set up the winning touchdown which he later got by old-fashioned plunging, the decision was up to the educated toe of Harry Levonian, who produced a kick straight and true to give the Wave a 14-13 lead which it never relinquished.
IT'S A HALF-PERFECT Homecoming
TULANE, 6; NOTRE DAME, 32

The game was far from over at this time, for another whole quarter and part of the third still had to be played which meant more of that Davis zig-zag and that Robinson power. But suiting themselves to the task, the Greenies on three occasions hurled themselves into the breach to shut off would-be State scores. It was sweet success, the kind that can only be won by "blood, sweat and tears."

Next in line came Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets, always tough customers for the Green Wave to handle. This year proved no exception to a Tulane team that had put out so much in winning against State. It was handicapped by injuries carried over and by a lack of adequate substitutes which plainly showed in the score of the Tech encounter, 41-7.

For three quarters, the Wave battled the boys from Atlanta giving little ground. But it was a disastrous final frame that resulted in such an uneven score. After holding the Jackets to a 20-7 count in 45 minutes of play, a firing Wave "11" became an easy mark in the fourth and through its own errors enabled the Engineers to rack up 21 markers in 15 minutes.

The running of Jack Counce and Dick Hoot again were Greenie highlights. It was Hoot's 22-yard dash in the third and Levonian's boot that combined to chalk up the Wave's seven points.

The Clemson Tigers next invaded massive Tulane Stadium to take on the Wave, but nearly as well heralded as the grid contest was the drill corps of the Clemson military unit. Both the gridders and the drillers showed the results of razzle-dazzle teaching which well could have come from the same text-book. In the free-scoring game, all too free for Tulane followers, the underdog Clemson executed everything but the officials to score on a bewildered "Green" Wave. They called into play the old Statue of Liberty, several variations of a fake kick and generally threw everything they had at the Wave except the bench and medical kit. Halfbacks Jim Reynolds and Billy Poe were as neat a pair as faced the Greenies all season. And the hard charging Clemson line was no soft touch either.

The Wave's scores came twice on passes and once on a quarterback sneak by Bill Leahey. Dick Hoot took in a Crouch 12-yard bullet for the second score while Dave Rideout ignored a couple of Clemson defenders in shagging the final touchdown toss from Leahey.

The story of Tulane's homecoming game with Notre Dame would make more adventuresome reading had the game ended at halftime instead of at the end of the fourth period.

For the initial appearance of the famed Irish in the Crescent City and in the Deep South, close to 65,000 fans turned out to set a new Southern football attendance record. Truthfully, many came just to see the Irish.

But before the game was over, they'd seen not only a visiting Notre Dame team, but a Tulane Green Wave that again played its hearts out knowing how overwhelming the odds were against it.

As Tulanians like to say it, Tulane led Notre Dame, 6-0, at the end of the half. But the records still will show that the Irish came back in time to register a 32-6 victory over a fierce-resisting Green Wave.

With a first quarter spurt that can best be likened to a juggernaut, the Green Wave took the opening Irish kickoff and roared 68 yards to a touchdown that had the mighty Ramblers aghast.

In three minutes Tulane had scored as a result of some good quarter backing, hard running and well-thrown passes. From its own 32-yard line, Tulane ripped off three consecutive first downs on charges by Jack Counce, Dick Hoot and Marvin McCain carrying to the N. D. 29. Counce took a pass from Crouch down to the 7-yard line and a pass to Hoot was allowed on the one for Irish interference.

When Counce crashed through for the score, the Wave registered its first TD on a Notre Dame team. For Jack, it was his greatest thrill. Only the year before he was a Class "B" prepper and on Saturdays saw Tulane play by selling programs. Now he had scored on Notre Dame and the Wave kept it that way, not allowing the Irish to retaliate until the third period.

It was a brilliant Tulane defense and a courageous stand that successfully held off the power of the Irish so long. At the end of the third, it was only 13-6 in favor of the Irish. But in the final period, they poured it on many Tulane reserves who were sent in just to have the "thrill" of playing against the nationally famed Irish.

The Louisiana titular battle with arch-rival Louisiana State University closed the Green Wave’s gridiron season. The Bayou Bengals, highly favored, lived up to advance notices and racked up a 33-0 victory over the Wavemen who in vain tried to pull another one of their upsets out of the hat.

The Tigers simply were too powerful, experienced and versatile for the Greenies who to the last struggled to hold down the score. In the game’s waning minutes, Tulane staged a goal-line stand, one of their specialties developed through the season by constant practice. It held in check the Tigers who were intent on upping the count.

In the battle of statistics the Greenies fared not so bad, making 12 first downs to 16 for the Tigers. But a stout Tiger line and a lack of scoring power combined to keep the Greenies from reaching the coveted end zone.

As is customary, Tulane Captains Jack Counce and Al Stolen surrendered their football pants to the winning Tiger captains after the game.

So ended the 1945 Tulane football season which will be known for a fighting but undermanned squad of grid warriors who gave all they had as long as they had it to give. They provided thrills, interesting games and won their share of headlines, but also more than their share of heartaches.
TIGERS PROVE TOO HOT TO Handle

Basketball had an off-year at Tulane in 1944-45 and it's a good bet that the Green Wave record keepers will not go much into the details of this season. Especially since it so closely followed the record 1943-44 season when Coach "Lefty" Haynes' cagers made history by taking the L. S. U. Tigers into camp four consecutive times.

It was another war-time Green Wave that faced many obstacles in finding a practice field, making a representative schedule and in securing topnotch players. The Greenies found themselves for the second straight season without their gymnasium because of the navy's occupancy.

Most of the hardwood encounters were with New Orleans area service teams which meant that competition was either very tough or mediocre. In case of Kessler Field, the Gulfport service installations and the Pensacola Naval Station, the inexperienced Green Wave cagers were asked to face many ex-college stars and not just a few players who boasted All-American basketball honors.

In Southeastern Conference competition, the Green Wave lost its quarterfinals contest to the University of Alabama at the annual tournament in Louisville, 51-31. It had received a first-round bye. The perennial University of Kentucky Wildcat cagers of Adolph Rupp again took down the loop championship by beating Tennessee.

The Wave broke exactly even in regular season engagements with conference foes. It opened with a neat 42-35 victory over Mississippi State in the lair of the neighboring Maroons. But it dropped a "home" game, played at the Y.M.H.A. gym, to a potent Georgia Tech Yellow Jacket aggregation, 49-38.

In the annual series with the arch-rival Bayou Bengals of Louisiana State, the Tulane hoopsters exchanged vic-

Tories by copping a pair of contests played in New Orleans and then bowing out in two tilts contested in Baton Rouge. L.S.U.'s conference scoring leader, Clyde Lindsey, proved too much on his own floor for the Greenies who had held him in check in the opening games of the series.

The season was cut short unexpectedly when the Green Wave was forced to cancel a couple of out-of-town games with Auburn and Georgia Tech because of the examination schedule.

The Wave did about as well as could be expected with the wherewithal at hand and performed creditably in even the games that it dropped to the all-powerful service teams. But the 1944-45 season is in the books now and Tulane can look forward to many better seasons ahead.

BASEBALL

Tulane Team Has Great Season

There was baseball a plenty for the Tulane Green Wave that copped 21 victories in 27 starts, for one of the Greenies' finest diamond seasons ever.

Nearly every afternoon of the week, during the season, Tulane was engaged in generating baseball hits by the carloads. The Wave boasted one of the most powerful hitting clubs seen in New Orleans outside of the professional Pelicans. It was a "TNT" team that banged out so many base hits that it didn't much matter how the Wave pitchers worked, though the Greenies claimed several hurling aces and sported a fancy fielding team afield.

Large scores were the usual. There were few games in which the Wave failed to score over half a dozen runs. In line with this general offensive policy, the opponents usually pushed across quite a few runs themselves.
The New Orleans newspapers followed from day to day the winning record of the Green Wave. Tulane won 12 straight triumphs before bowing in a single contest. That’s quite a string of victories and in each edition the headlines raved “Tulane Takes Another,” “Wave Wins 10th.”

The season began with a large turnout to Coach Simons’ diamond call. Some 70 athletes decided to try their hand at the horsehide game. After the field had been narrowed down, the Wave got down to its serious work and the business of winning ball games.

There were only three holdover letter winners from the previous season, an infielder, an outfielder and one lone moundsman. This was a nucleus around which to build, but there was plenty of building to do.

As in basketball, the 1945 baseball season called for a “war-time” schedule which meant games with all available teams and as little travel as possible. The Wave took into camp most of the local service outfits, even winning twice or more in home-and-home series with some teams.

Included on the Greenie list of victims were teams such as the Eighth Naval Headquarters, Lagarde Hospital, Algiers Naval Repair Base, New Orleans Naval Hospital, and Naval Air Station. A swing onto the usually potent installations of the Gulf Coast proved all victorious for the Greenies who dusted off Keesler Field, the Gulfport Naval Training Center and the Gulfport Army Air Field. Such strong coast outfits had been the nemesis of Tulane athletic teams for several years.

Only mark on an otherwise unscarred and successful season was the annual four-game rivalry with the Louisiana State Tigers who edged the Wave in two close games to cop the series, three games to one. It was the Ole War Skule that halted the Wave winning streak at 12 victories when they won the series opener and first game of a doubleheader played on the Greenie diamond. No. 13 proved unlucky for the Green Wave.

After dividing a twin bill here, the Tigers played hosts to the Greenies in Baton Rouge and annexed the honors in both games of a doubleheader, winning the deciding contest by a bare 1-0 margin.

It was a grand baseball season, one that will long be remembered. There were individual stars by the multitude, thrilling games and easily won contests—and the Green Wave produced a team, that some have favorably compared to the club on which Eddie Morgan and Carl Lind played before attaining success in the pro leagues.

An abbreviated golf season found the Tulane links team extending its mastery over the L. S. U. Tiger greensmen to four straight victories. The Wave, coached by Innes Millar, turned in two virtual whitewashes of the Bayou Bengal ball chasers to add to the two triumphs of the previous season.

In the first of the series, the Greenies handed the Tigers a 17½-½ shellacking on their own Country Club course in Baton Rouge. Only one Bengal golfer managed to score. In the return battle in New Orleans, the Wave was again victorious in every singles and doubles match for a 16-2 massacre.

The soldier shooters of Keesler Field took the Greenies in their first outing of the season, scoring a 17½ to 9½ victory over the Wave on the Audobon golf course. In a conference match played here, Georgia Tech eked out a one-point 9½ to 8½ win over the Green Wave.

Karl Humes was the lone letterwinner to report back for the 1945 season, though he gained able assistance from Charles Croxton, Robert Jellison, Richard Martorell, Robert McGregor and James Moore, all of whom earned their letters.

Jimmy Moore of Amarillo, Tex., was the team ace. He consistently shot close to par 72 rounds and during the entire season never lost a singles match.
Displaying a decided improvement over the previous season, Tulane's track and field squad enjoyed one of its most successful campaigns in several years. The Greenies climaxd their season by snatching third place in the Southeastern Conference meet although they entered only eight thinclads.

In their first outing, the annual Southwestern Relay Carnival at Lafayette, the tracksters surprised even their most ardent rooters with a smashing victory over all opposition. Scoring 46 points, the Green Wave smothered second-place Texas A. & M., third-place Louisiana State University, and fourth-place Louisiana Tech.

Because of a light schedule, the cindermen laid off a whole month before entering into any further competition. In a duel meet at Atlanta, Tulane proved no match for the well-balanced Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets. The Engineers rolled up eighty-seven and two-thirds points to the Greenies thirty-eight and one-third markers.

Highlight of the season was the encounter between Tulane and L. S. U., a meet which no Tulane team has been able to win for 13 years, since 1931. Jumping off to a substantial lead, the Wavemen seemed headed toward that elusive victory over the Bayou Bengals.
Wave Third in S. E. C. Meet

It was a most dramatic track meet that spring afternoon. Far out in front after the early events, Tulane's margin was slowly trimmed by a late Tiger surge. The Bengals gathered points in events which they had not entered before. The once commanding Tulane lead was whittled away, and the Greenies were forced into the final relay with a 57 to 55 edge. To add to the dismay, Joe Rault turned up with a bum leg, and Johnny Anderson, a former 440 high school ace, shed his baseball togs and stepped from the sidelines to volunteer his services in the deciding race. He delivered well in the clutch but the Tigers were fresher and had the necessary stamina to outlast a valiant Green Wave effort for the victory that enabled them to eke out a 60 to 57 decision.

Mainstays for Tulane were veteran letter-winners Hugh Liles, Stewart Williams, Billy Corbell, and Joe Renfroe, who again earned their monograms, and Ray Arthur, Marvin McCain, Harry Robinson, Troye Svendson, Henry Angulo, and Herbert Williams.
In the Southeastern Conference meet, Liles was the Greenie luminary as he took down top honors in both the high and low hurdles to tie for high-point laurels of the meet with Tom Dickey of L. S. U. In the high and low hurdles, Tulane secured six out of eight berths with Frank Schutz and Frank Burge placing behind the speedy Liles. Corbell’s all-out effort in the mile and McCain’s better-than-22-feet leap in the broad jump were good enough to garner firsts in both events. Despite their limited representation, the Green Wave finished ahead of Auburn, Tennessee, Mississippi State and Florida.

The lack of a complete schedule and other incentives to regular practice somewhat marred the season. It was, however, an improvement over its immediate predecessor and with a few holdovers, returning veterans, and incoming freshmen, the Green Wave should continue its climb in the track and field world and provide Tulane with a team to which it can point with pride.

TENNIS

It was a banner year on the clay courts for the Tulane tennis team which chalked up seven victories and one tie in 10 matches played during the season.

For the second straight year, the Green Wave racquetees performed under the tutelage of Ernie Sutter, former Tulane Southern intercollegiate champion, who gave his own time while studying in the College of Law.

Again the Green Wave enjoyed a marked superiority over the Louisiana State Tigers, winning both matches without dropping a singles or doubles contest. Whitewash 6-0 scores were the order for the Wave in its decisive triumphs over the Bengal boys. Tulane lost only to Keesler Field and to Georgia Tech. Playing a lengthy match, the Wave dropped a 6-3 decision to the Keeslerites. The Greenies tasted their only defeat in college competition at the hands of a fine Georgia Tech team, 4-2. The Jackets repeated the victories of their football, basketball and golf teams and boasted nationally prominent players.

The Sutter swingers opened the season with a clean sweep in the annual match with the New Orleans Lawn Tennis Club. The lone tie of the season came when a strong City Park Tennis Club quartet broke even, 3-3, with the Greenies in a hotly contested match.

Tulane continued its season by playing host to the Rice Institute Owls. But contrary to local hospitality, the Greenies showed no mercy in bringing about a 6-0 defeat of the visitors from Houston, Texas. The Greenies scored a pair of victories over a team from LaGarde General Army Hospital, taking 9-0 and 6-0 verdicts. Another triumph was accounted for at the expense of the Camp Plauche army installation.

The youthful Baker ran into Tom Burke of Miami, a teammate of Pancho Segura, and fell 6-0, 6-3... In doubles play, Baker and Waters were eliminated from competition by a team from California Tech... Pancho Segura was crowned NCAA single champion and doubles titlist along with Burke... Due to wartime conditions, the Southeastern Conference Tournament again was not held... But despite wartime handicaps, Tulane continued its fine record in intercollegiate tennis and for several years turned out good teams... Georgia Tech was the No. 1 net power, but Tulane kept up the sport on a high plane and should be ready for the peacetime reconversion which will enable it again to demonstrate its tennis talent to other Southeastern Conference schools... To Coach Ernie Sutter, who recently received his degree from Law School, goes a “Well Done” for his wartime coaching under difficult conditions.

Intramural sports has, as in the past, been the center of keen competition this year, with the freshman and sophomore classes of the various colleges striving for the honor of attaining the Holmes Trophy—a cup awarded the successful contender in the phases of sports activities. On the schedule in this competition, and in intercollege and class contests, has been touch football, basketball, softball, track, field, tennis, soccer, boxing, wrestling, and handball.

THE Year AHEAD

Changes in the athletic setup at Tulane augur well for the future of the Green Wave in every field of intercollegiate competition.

The year past has seen the return of staff members from the war, strengthening the coaching staff and the addition of new coaches designed to improve the lot of the Green Wave on the field of athletic battle.

In a new organizational arrangement, intercollegiate athletics have been brought under the supervision of Horace Renegar, director of the Division of Public Relations.

Claude "Monk" Simons, who has been called the most popular of all Tulane athletes, has been made Green Wave athletic director in the new order of things.

Coach Henry Frnka, who for five years produced bowl football teams at Tulsa, has been made head coach of the Green Wave and has grouped around him a staff of assistants comparable to any in the nation. On his staff are Dennis Vinzent, chief assistant; Andy Pilney, backfield coach; J. T. King, line coach; and Tommy O'Boyle, assistant line coach.

In an effort to raise Tulane to national prominence in the cage world, Coach Cliff Wells, known as "Dean of Indiana High School Coaches," has been made head basketball coach.

Back at his old stand is Coach Emmett Pare after three years of service with the U. S. Navy. Prior to entering the Navy, Pare for nine years turned out Southeastern Conference tennis contenders and national net stars in wholesale lots.

In the realm of the track and field, Coaches Fritz Oakes and Johnny Oelkers are the men who will guide the destinies of the cinder-path and field experts.

Coach Innes Millar again is in charge of the Green Wave golf team.

The last addition to the staff was Gene Logan who will be athletic trainer in all sports.

With this lineup of coaches, expert in their field, Tulane University athletics looks forward to the years ahead confidently anticipating success in all of its endeavors.

SINCE 1900

or more than 44 years the ingredients used in Jacobs Quality Chocolates... have been the finest obtainable on the markets of the world. And today—every tongue-tingling-tempter in Jacobs' famous packages is still a quality product, expertly fashioned for the discriminating candy-lover. If your dealer is out of Jacobs' Quality Packages today—ask for them again, next time. You'll agree they're the South's Favorites!!

THE SECRET OF GOOD CREOLE COOKING

For the flavor that makes Creole dishes outstanding, this Louisiana Seasoning is what you need. Keep it handy. It’s fine, too, for seasoning Chili, Barbecue or any dish when a sharp peppery flavor is desired. Sold by all good grocers.

Who’ll Fill This Place at Public Service in 19—?

We don’t know yet, of course, WHO will fill this place in our company in years to come, but we do know WHAT this young man or woman must be—intelligent, clear-thinking, unafraid to accept the challenge business people of tomorrow must be ready to meet.

Day by day they join us—as clerical workers—as junior engineers—accountants or in scores of other capacities. Some will climb in their jobs ’til they’re at the top—ready to encourage other young men and women as our staff today is ready to guide and encourage them.

It’s the American pattern. Young people looking for their place in life. Finding it in a healthy, progressive industry in their own home town.

It’s an important and fascinating job supplying a growing city with a constant flow of electricity and gas—operating a great network of transportation facilities. We’re especially proud of our part in supplying vital industries in war and peace with these essential services. The reconversion of these industries to peacetime production has impressed upon us our need of people who understand our business from the ground up.
